

MARKETING POSITION AT THE FERMANIAN SCHOOL OF BUSINESS San Diego, California

The Fermanian School of Business is seeking qualified candidates for an Professorship in Marketing. The position is a full-time, tenure-track faculty position beginning in August 2017. The ideal candidate must be academically qualified to meet ACBSP accreditation standards. The University and the Fermanian School of Business encourage applications from women and underrepresented minorities. The review of applications will begin immediately and continue until the position is filled.

The Fermanian School of Business is an ACBSP accredited school with high standards. In addition to marketing, the School of Business offers undergraduate majors in management, finance, accounting, economics, international development and information systems. The School of Business also offers an evening MBA program and an on-line MBA program for experienced professionals, and a daytime MBA program for recent graduates. The successful candidate will likely teach at both undergraduate and graduate levels.

Professional Qualifications

Ph.D. or DBA in marketing or closely related area, undergraduate and graduate teaching experience desirable, practical marketing experience preferred, and commitment to on-going professional activity and scholarship.

Personal Motivation

An active and maturing faith in Jesus Christ, and a commitment to PLNU and its Christian message, active church involvement, a desire to build student and community relationships, and evidence of enthusiasm for undergraduate and graduate education.

Applications

For a complete job description and to access online applications, please go to <http://www.pointloma.edu/jobs> or if you have additional questions you may contact Daniel Bothe, Dean of the Fermanian School of Business at dbothe@pointloma.edu.